

Sinclair Broadcasting recently made the decision to force their stations to air the "documentary" 'Stolen Honor.' This so-called documentary is a volatile, inflammatory tactic used to sway the presidential election.

Considering the fact that Sinclair Broadcasting utilizes the airwaves free of charge, they should be required to assure their programs truly serve the public interest. What they are doing is blatant propaganda.

Ultimately, this decision negatively affects our democratic process. The FCC should force broadcasting companies to provide a balanced look at politics, specifically the presidential election.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They demonstrate why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard.

Thank you for your time.
